

YOU MAY TRY TO MAKE ME LAUGH

If you look at me I'll hide
If you speak to me I'm dumb
But never try to take my turn, I'll bark

Bit your wife I'll never care
You're getting hurt, I will stare
But never try to touch my dog
Never try to touch my car

Oh – oh won't you tell me why
People making wars
While others try to leave in harmony
I don't care, I've got my TV screen
Some friends, my wife, my holidays
I just need more privacy

I suppose a bird is whistling
Are there flowers beside my building?
Does my children know their smell, am I wondering?

Could my neighbor be my best friend?
The friend of my child a future president?
Can I be call to make a war, what will I die for?

Oh – oh won't you tell me why
People making wars
While others try to leave in harmony
I don't care, I've got my TV screen
Some friends, my wife, my holidays
I just need more privacy

If you look at me I'll hide
If you speak to me, I'm dumb
Bit your wife I'll never care
You're getting hurt I will stare
Never try to take my turn
Never try to touch my dog
Never try to touch my car

You may try to make me laugh
You may try to make me love
